【Highlight Recap】 Essential Guide to Effective Arts Management - #4 & 5

The fourth and fifth classes of “Essential Guide to Effective Arts Management” were held successfully. Thank you all for your participation! You are honoured to have Ms Gladys Wong (Independent Producer), Prof Tseng Sun Man (Professor of Practice in Music Management, CUHK), and Mr Tang Yiu Ming (Seasoned Arts Administrator) as our speakers to share with us on the topics “Producer’s Role in Team Management” and “Overview of Arts Leadership” respectively.

Class #4 - Producer’s Role in Team Management
In the arts sector, a producer is often referred to as the key person carrying multiple responsibilities and managing the team. In the class, Gladys highlighted the importance of time and team management being a producer, as he/she would need to oversee the project, (...)

Class #5 - Overview of Arts Leadership
Stepping into Unit 2 - Be a Culturepreneur: Arts Governance, we are honoured to have Prof Tseng and Ming to share with us an overview of arts leadership.

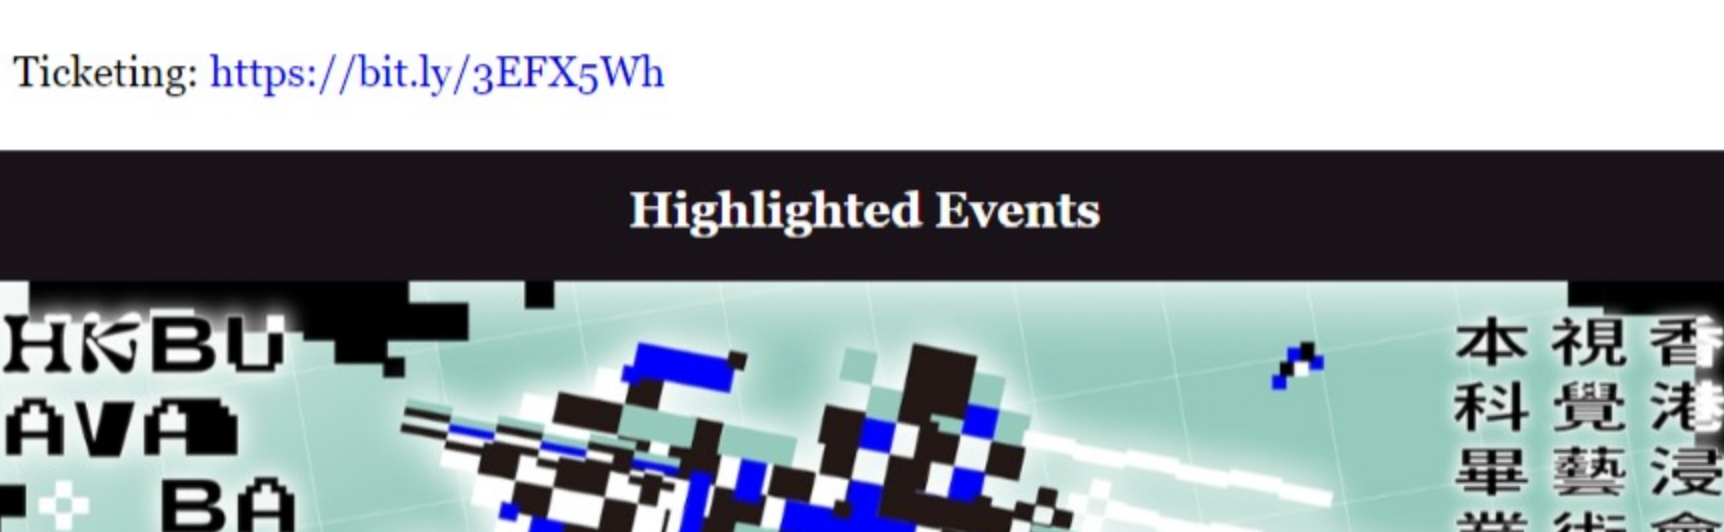

Prof Tseng shed light on the roles and mindset qualities a culturepreneur should possess. In becoming a successful culturepreneur, it is vital to cultivate visionary leadership and optimize the values of your organization. A holistic understanding of the arts ecology can serve as (...)

The 2022 HKBU AVA BA Graduation Show sails the Ship of Theseus, guiding our graduates through the turbulent seas to find their coast.

Making is remaking. The tempering of thought and refinement of imagination. Ideas combine to make an alloy of the old and new. We take it apart, put it back together, only to take it apart again. In the hundreds of iterations, are we holding onto anything?

Bridging the virtual and the real, our graduates sketch their blueprints. In the abandoned, assimilated, and inexpressible, is forged each graduate's ship.
